Danny,

As I stated earlier, Idaho does not have an acceptance program but if an owner or operator chooses to utilize this method we will make sure it meets the requirements. Because this is such a new method to our state and the method does seem to have some limitations, I think the best approach is to evaluate it on a case-by-case basis. If an Idaho owner or operator chooses this method I will evaluate it at that time – what time of year was it, what were the site conditions, was someone from DEQ on-site to see it live, etc.

I know I'm not leaving you with an answer, but it's the best I can do at this point in time. Obviously I'd be interested to read the Ken Wilcox evaluation so please forward that when complete.
